Democratic Ticket and Wet Referendum Win

Smith and Wagner Carry State by Record Pluralities — Democrats Win Other State Offices With Possible Exception of Attorney General — Legislature Remains Republican—Only Four Up-State Counties Democratic—Smith's Plurality, 272,906—Wagner's Plurality, 146,077—Wet Referendum Carries by More Than Million.

New York, Nov. 3 (AP).—The extent of the Democratic victory in yesterday's state election became more apparent as the belated returns trickled in today. The entire state ticket with the possible exception of attorney general, was captured by the Democrats.

With only 233 upstate districts to be heard from Governor Smith had a plurality of 272,906 over his Republican opponent, Ogden L. Mills. The vote was:

Smith, 1,508,353.
Mills, 1,235,477.

Wagner Swept to Victory.

Supreme Court Justice Robert F. Wagner, Democrat, candidate for United States Senate, was swept to victory on the crest of the Smith wave, defeating James W. Wadsworth, Jr., who has spent the last 12 years in the upper house of congress. With only 217 upstate districts unreported, the vote was:

Wagner, 1,321,215.
Wadsworth, 1,175,138.

Cristman Caused Wadsworth's Defeat

Senator Wadsworth's defeat was due to the dry defection in some of the upstate districts. Former State Senator Franklin W. Cristman, running as an independent Republican, and backed by the organized drys, polled a vote of 206,664, which was nearly 70,000 in excess of Justice Wagner's plurality over Senator Wadsworth.

Corning, Lieutenant Governor.

Returns from 7,012 of the 7,818 election districts in the state, including the complete vote of New York city, gives for lieutenant governor:

Corning, Democrat, 1,338,904.
Lowman, Republican, 1,154,988.

Tremaine for Comptroller.

With 1,125 upstate districts yet to be heard from the Democratic candidate for state comptroller was leading by a margin of more than 175,000. The vote was:

Tremaine, Democrat. 1,265,712.
Murphy, Republican, 1,084,893.

Vote for Attorney General.

With 1,185 upstate districts missing, the vote in the balance of the state, including New York city complete gave for attorney-general:

Stolz, Democrat, 1,216,059.
Ottinger, Republican, 1,112,338.

Vote Wet 3 to 1.

On the basis of returns in hand the supporters of the proposal to memorialize congress to modify the Volstead Act, were in a proportion of more than three to one. The organized drys, however, had urged their supporters to refrain from voting on the referendum. With 1,076 districts missing but with the complete vote of New York city reported, the poll was:

Yes, 1,620,919.
No, 473,961.

The Republicans retained control of the legislature although they lost two seats in the senate and eight in the assembly.

Milk Issue Collapsed.

In a campaign where Smith, Wagner and Wadsworth were avowedly wet and Mills mildly so, events revolved about the issue of milk. Mills charged that Smith was responsible for adulterated milk being sold in New York city. He declared the governor, in failing to press an investigation, had "crawled into a beer keg to escape the rattle of the milk can."

The charges collapsed, however, in the eyes of the Democrats, when an expert who analyzed milk specimens at the instance of the Republican committee, later said that nothing injurious had been found and that the supply was superior to most cities.

There were minor issues of Coolidge and economy, stressed by Mills and the latter asserted that the governor was running for office to aid his candidacy for the presidential nomination. But the governor, a few days before election, stated that if elected he did not intend to leave the state, except to play golf now and then, and would devote his whole energies to his job.

Only Four Counties Democratic.

Analysis of the vote shows a line of cleavage between the Republican upstate counties and the five solidly Democratic counties comprising the metropolis. In effect it was one state voting against another. Of the 57 upstate counties only four—Albany, Clinton, Oneida and Rensselaer—went Democratic.

The governor, however, carried a number of upstate cities, including Albany, Buffalo, Troy, Utica, Syracuse, Binghamton and Oswego.

Predicts Smith For President.

Smith's victory was hailed with delight by George W. Olvany, leader of Tammany Hall, who said, "that makes it unanimous for president in 1928."

Smith and Wagner Statement.

The governor and Justice Wagner issued a joint statement in which they said:

"The vote indicates that the Republican candidates and the platform upon which they ran were out of harmony with the popular will. The people of New York cannot be deceived or fooled for long. The result is clearly a mandate for a continuance of the policy of this administration in the state and a repudiation of the Volstead law."

Republican Leaders Stunned.

Republican leaders appeared stunned as Smith and Wagner began amassing a tremendous vote in New York city which swept aside the upstate lead. Mr. Mills refused to admit defeat until after midnight, expressing his belief that he would squeeze through when the rural vote came in. But as the Democratic totals began to climb by leaps, he acknowledged defeat and sent a telegram of congratulations to the governor. George K. Morris, Republican state chairman, expressed hope until almost the last. He declined to issue a statement and said he probably would not comment officially until Thursday.

Voters Hear Returns by Radio.

The election, so far as New York city is concerned, demonstrated that the day of the old fashioned, noisy election night celebration is a thing of the past. "It was the deadest election ever," said veteran bluecoats. Except in the early part of the evening, when there were crowds in front of newspaper bulletin boards, New York streets took on an almost deserted appearance. The police believe that the interested citizen now stays at home and listens to radio returns. Vendors of noise making devices mournfully patrolled the Roaring Forties trying to dispose of their wares.

Paulen Swamps Davis in Kansas

Topeka, Kansas, Nov. 3 (AP)—A Republican wave swelled and broke over Kansas yesterday apparently carrying Republican candidates into all contested state offices.

Senator Charles Curtis and Governor Ben S. Paulen, Republicans, each held sweeping leads for re-election with half the precincts in the state reported.

Jonathan M. Davis, ex-governor, who left the chair in January, 1925, after his first term, to be tried twice and acquitted on charges of selling pardons, was swamped under a 60,000 majority rolled up by Governor Paulen. Senator Curtis, Republican floor leader, in the senate, held a margin of more than 58,000 votes over his Democratic opponent, Charles Stephens.

Early Returns Favor Donahey

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 3 (AP).—Returns from 8,204 of the 8,634 precincts in the state today showed Governor Vic Donahey with a lead of 12,642 over Meyers Y. Cooper, Republican. The vote:

Donahey, 665,343.
Cooper, 652,701.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATRES

"My Official Wife" will be the feature attraction at the Auditorium theatre this evening.

Reade's Kingston theatre will present the photoplays "Into Her Kingdom," starring Corrinne Griffith and "The Runaway" a William de Mille production.

The Orpheum theatre will offer two feature pictures this evening. "Woman of the World," starring Pola Negri, and "The Night Watch" with an all-star cast.

Red Aviator Kills Self.

Moscow, Nov. 3 (AP)—Captain Apollinari Tomachevsky, one of the most brilliant aviators in the Red army and among the first to make the flight from Moscow to Peking and return, committed suicide today. Unrequited love is said to have been the cause.

Off-Year Setback Visits G. O. P. in General Election

Reversal Cost Republicans Seats in Both Senate and House — Few Changes in State Administration Indicated—Wets and Drys Still Figuring.

New York, Nov. 3 (AP).—The off-year setback that so often falls to the lot of the party in power came to visit the Republicans in yesterday's elections.

While the reversal did not take on the proportions of the mid-administration drubbings encountered by Presidents Taft and Wilson, it cost the Republicans some seats in both Senate and House, narrowing a margin of control already worn thin by the operations of the insurgents.

Outstanding Democratic victories were recorded in New York, which by a quarter of a million majority reelected Governor Smith, with whatever effect it may have on the governor's presidential candidacy in 1928, and in Massachusetts, which decisively defeated Senator Butler, President Coolidge's personal friend and chairman of the Republican National Committee.

The New York slide also snowed under Senator Wadsworth, another Republican power in the Senate, while Oklahoma returning to the Democratic fireside from which she strayed in the Harding Republican year of 1920, refused to return Senator Harreld to Washington. Available returns show Republican senatorial candidates either trailing or hard pressed in Arizona, Missouri, Kentucky, Maryland, Oregon, Colorado and Indiana.

Klan Issue Has Its Effect.

In Indiana it is apparent that the Ku Klux Klan issue which came into renewed prominence this year before the senate campaign investigating committee, cut sharply into the normal majority and that Senator "Jim" Watson and his running mate Senator Robinson, were not destined for the easy victory they had expected. In Pennsylvania and Illinois, where Republican campaign funds were an issue, William S. Vare and Frank L. Smith, the Republican nominees, were swept along to victory. Various Democratic senators have declared neither will ever be seated.

A large bloc of seats in the House of Representatives still hung in the doubtful column today, although the Republicans were working along perpetuation of their present control with only a few upsets. With a dozen or so doubtful districts already tucked away by the majority party, the Democrats on the overnight returns had hung up a net gain of only six. A turnover of thirty-six, would be needed to boost the Democratic house strength to a majority.

Few Changes in States.

Thirty-three states elected governors, and although the returns from many are far from complete, few changes of state administration are indicated. While Governor Smith was winning his fourth term, three of his Democratic colleagues were likewise amassing pluralities that promised to give them new tenures as head of their respective state governments. Ritchie of Maryland and Donahey of Ohio, each running for a third term, established comfortable leads as the returns came in, and Hunt of Arizona, already five times governor, was ahead by a narrower margin for a sixth trick as state executive.

The country's only remaining woman governor, Nellie Taylor Ross of Wyoming, did not find her going so easy, her Republican opponent running almost even with her on incomplete returns. South Dakota, indulging in much ballot scratching, apparently had elected W. J. Bulow as its first Democratic governor in a quarter of a century. Former Governor Davis made out poorly in his attempt to come back as Democratic nominee in Kansas, but in Nebraska former Governor Charles W. Bryan, the running mate of John W. Davis in 1924, was keeping close to his Republican opponent, Governor McMullen. Despite its defeat of Senator Butler, Massachusetts re-elected Governor Fuller, Republican.

Wets and Drys Still Figuring.

Prohibition figured as an issue in several of the senatorial and gubernatorial contests, and in eight states some feature of the dry laws was voted on directly as state wide referendums, but the wets and drys were still figuring over the incomplete returns today before announcing their deductions. Governor Smith in New York and Governor Ritchie in Maryland ran on wet platforms, while Governor Donahey of Ohio was endorsed as a dry. Frank L. Smith, the successful Republican senatorial candidate in Illinois, was endorsed by the Anti-Saloon League, which described his Democratic opponent, George E. Brennan, a "supporter." The same appellation was applied by the league to William S. Vare in Pennsylvania. In Ohio Senator Willis, Republican and ardent dry, won handily over former Senator Pomerene. Voting for referendum for modification in New York state returned a wet majority of about 3 to 1. The voters of Illinois, passing judgment on a similar proposal, apparently endorsed it likewise by a substantial majority. Wisconsin returns established an early overwhelming lead in favor of a petition for 2.75 per cent beer, while first incomplete figures showed wide

Ulster County's Vote Shows Usual Mixed Result in Election

Ulster county's vote shows the usual mixed results, pluralities ranging from 7,000 Republican to 2,200 Democratic. Approximate pluralities follow:

For Governor—Mills, Republican, 4,400.
For U. S. Senator—Wadsworth, Republican, 3,600.
Supreme Court—Hasbrouck, Republican, 4,300.
Congressman—Pratt, Republican, 6,500.
State Senator—Wicks, Republican, 5,000
Assembly — Davis, Republican, 3,300.
Surrogate—Kaufman, Republican, 7,500.
Sheriff—Rice, Democratic, 2,200.
The Cristman vote was about 2,900.
Detailed figures will be found on another page.

Ulster Stands By Wadsworth

There has been so much interest displayed in Ulster county in the fight for United States Senator that The Freeman has taken the pains to tabulate the vote cast by districts.

It will be seen that notwithstanding the efforts of the dry campaigners Senator Wadsworth has carried Ulster county by a handsome majority. It is evident from an analysis of the vote that Cristman received the votes of a considerable number of dry Democrats while Wadsworth apparently received the support of a number of temperate Democrats which overcame to some extent the defection of the extreme dry Republican vote that went to Cristman.

The tabulated vote follows:

Ulster Strong For Modification

Vote Indicates Overwhelming Majority Favor Modification of the Prohibition Law—The Vote By Districts.

Ulster county Tuesday by an overwhelming majority voted in favor of the Volstead law referendum, and while the vote is not as large as that cast for candidates there is no positive proof that it is due to any extensive "strike" on the part of the extreme drys as there is always a smaller vote cast on questions submitted to the voters than that accorded candidates for various offices.

While some of the dry organizations advocated that voters refrain from casting a ballot on the referendum others like the W. C. T. U., urged that a vote be cast on the question.

The referendum was carried in Ulster county by a majority of 5,500.

Trolley and Bus Lines Seek Increased Fare

Filed Petition Tuesday With Public Service Commission Asking for 8 1-3 Cent Ticket Fare and Straight 10 Cent Cash Fare—Increased Cost of Operation and Decline of Business Reasons Advanced.

The Kingston Consolidated Railroad and the Kingston Transportation Company operating the street railroad and bus lines in the city on Tuesday filed with the public service commission a petition asking to be allowed to increase the fare on both the trolley and bus lines to 8 1-3 cents for tickets and a straight ten cent cash fare.

The trolley road in its petition states that the increased operating expenses and the general decline in business has made it necessary to ask for the increased fare.

By offering tickets sold in groups of three or multiples of three at the rate of 8 1-3 cents for each ticket, the fare to frequent riders on the busses and trolley cars will not be materially increased and the company believes that the infrequent riders should help pay for the maintenance of the service offered.

It is stated by the trolley management that in other cities in the Hudson river valley like Poughkeepsie and Newburgh the ten cent fare has been in force for some time.

The petition states that it was believed the operating income for 1926 could not exceed $22,000, being 6 per cent on $367,000 and 8 per cent on $275,000, whereas the value of the property is at least $700,000.

Sunday Movies Lose in Kingston By 198 Majority

The Sunday movie referendum voted upon in the city of Kingston Tuesday was defeated by 198 votes, complete returns from the districts show today. The referendum—"Shall the Common Council of the City of Kingston pass an ordinance authorizing the exhibition of motion pictures on Sunday after 2 o'clock in the afternoon"—resulted in a hotly contested campaign and brought out a large vote. The final figures were 5,388 noes and 5,586 ayes.

Select Jury in Hall-Mills Case

Somerville, N. J., Nov. 3 (AP)—With a jury selected, the first trial in the Hall-Mills murder case moved into its second phase today.

The jury was selected within an hour and a half. Justice Charles W. Parker of the Supreme court then dismissed the jury while he conferred with counsel.

The jury does not include a woman, although Senator Simpson, special prosecutor, had planned to get a woman juror "because she would better understand the workings of Mrs. Hall's mind."

In examining one of the talesmen, Senator Simpson accused him of attempting to induce a member of the indicting grand jury not to return an indictment against the defendants. The state used all its five challenges, but the defense used only one.

While the jury was being selected, Justice Parker commanded court guards to seize a newspaper photographer's camera. The photographer, who had been taking photographs of the proceedings surrendered the camera without objection and it was impounded.

GIRLS IN POLICE DETENTION ROOM SANG PRISONER'S SONG.

Frances and Stella Melechowicz of 120 Hasbrouck avenue and Stella Hrobocienski of 135 Gross street, ranging in age from 12 to 14 years, were picked up on Chambers street at 4 o'clock this morning by Officer Snehlof and taken to police headquarters where they were lodged in the detention room. As they gazed out from behind the bars they broke out into song. The song they sang was "The Prisoner's Song." Later in the morning they were taken before Judge Fowler in children's court. The girls told the police they had remained out so late Monday night they had been afraid to go home. They had also stayed away from home all day Tuesday.

SPEAKER SECURED FOR FATHER AND SON BANQUET

The Father and Son Banquet will be held at the Y. M. C. A. on Friday evening, November 12. J. Burford Parry of Springfield, Mass., will be the speaker and he will have something of interest to say to all who attend.

A Benefit Dance.

There will be a dance at the K. of C. Hall on Friday, November 5, for the benefit of St. Ann's Church, Sawkill. Dancing will start at 9 o'clock and continue until 1 a. m. The music will be furnished by Maisenhelder's Orchestra. Refreshments will be served. The public is invited.

Boy Carried Away On Queen's Train

Spokane, Washn., Nov. 3 (AP).—A small boy may look at a queen—be carried away from his home for it.

Lester Brown, 10, was found aboard Queen Marie's special train a few minutes after it had left Sand Point, Idaho, yesterday. He was in tears. He had slipped aboard the train as it slowed down for Sand Point and had been unable to hop off as it passed the station because of the press of the crowd.

Queenly arms comforted him and the royal candy was brought into play. He was the queen's guest until Spokane was reached. Marie herself telegraphed the boy's parents. It read:

"Please have no anxiety about Lester. He is dining with myself and my children and I assure he will be returned to you at the earliest possible moment and be taken care of until he is put in your hands by a representative of mine. We are happy to have him with us."

Boy's Skull May Be Fractured

Virgil Ellsworth, aged 17, of Linderman avenue obtained a possible fracture of the skull when he was struck by a Chrysler car at about 5:45 o'clock Tuesday evening on Broadway near Cedar street while riding his bicycle. The name of the offending motorist could not be ascertained and no report of the accident was made to the police by the offending motorist. The boy was taken to his home and is under the care of Dr. Gannon.

Wicks Carries Three Counties

Incomplete returns give Arthur H. Wicks, Republican, the election for state senator, defeating Jerome Farrell, Democrat. Ulster county gave Wicks a majority of 5,000 and he also carried Greene by approximately 2,500 and Delaware by 2,000.

REPUBLICAN CONGRESSMEN IN ADJOINING DISTRICTS

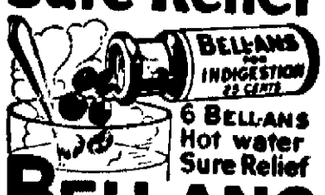

John D. Clarke of Delaware county was elected Congressman on Tuesday from the Thirty-fourth district, comprising the counties of Delaware, Otsego, Broome and Chenango. Two years ago Mr. Clarke was defeated by Harold S. Tolley of Binghamton for the Republican nomination and Mr. Tolley was elected. Mr. Clarke's opponent Tuesday was B. J. McGuire, Democrat.

In the Twenty-sixth district, comprising the counties of Orange, Dutchess and Putnam, Hamilton Fish, Jr., Republican, was re-elected Congressman, defeating W. G. Russell, Democrat, and James C. Hogan, Socialist.

GEYSER WATER DRINKING BRINGS QUICK BENEFITS

Stomach, Digestion and Nerves Responsive to Its Medicinal Efficacy

The faith which people have in Geyser, sparkling table water, is justified. The State of New York would not have gone to such great expense to take the famous Geyser spring under its supervision if this age-renowned medicinal Mecca had not long ago proven its great worth in relieving human ailments.

Delicious and appetizing, refreshing and stimulating, Geyser goes into the modern, soft food diet to prevent the generation of acids which upset the stomach, derange digestion, bring on headaches, eye troubles, faulty elimination and the other complications that often follow acid indigestion. There is no use arguing about whether Geyser will or will not benefit you. Ask your doctor or order a case of Geyser from your dealer. Sip a bottle with each meal and another before retiring. Hundreds of thousands travel to Saratoga for this purpose every year and have done so for generations and generations. You may have Geyser served on your own table at very nominal expense.

Drink a bottle of Hathorn natural laxative water, upon arising, to sweep out the dietary mistakes of yesterday and correct habitual faulty elimination. Hathorn is a sparkling, naturally carbonated, pleasant tasting, medicinal water.

Sold in Borst Grocery Co's Store and by other high-class dealers.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Don't let coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new kind of remedy with two-fold action; it helps to loosen and expel the inflamed membranes and kill the germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Grandmother Knew

there was nothing so good for congestion and colds as mustard. But the old-fashioned mustard plaster burned and blistered.

Musterole gives the relief and help that mustard plasters gave, without the plaster and without the blister.

It is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Gently rub it in. See how quickly the pain disappears.

Try Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia).

Farm Bureau Advisory Council

Arrangements are well under way for the suppers and meetings of the Advisory Council of the Farm Bureau, to be held at the Advance Restaurant in Kingston on Friday evening, November 5, and at Clintondale in the Grange Hall on Saturday evening, November 6.

Farm Bureau committeemen and their wives from Asbury, Flatbush, Tongore, Ulster Park, Hurley, Stone Ridge, Alligerville-Kyserike, Accord, Kerhonkson will attend the Kingston meeting, while those from New Paltz, Modena-Plattekill, Wallkill-Shawangunk, Gardiner, Highland, Milton, Marlborough and Clintondale will attend the Clintondale meeting. President Millard Davis will preside. An excellent program of speaking and musical numbers has been arranged. E. A. Flansburgh, of the central office of the Farm Bureaus at Ithaca, will attend and outline the work of the Farm Bureaus throughout the state. Community chairmen will be called on for brief reports of the work in their community. Membership campaign plans will be completed and canvassers and committeemen will start the real canvass on November 8.

Canton, China's Open Door

Since 1730 Canton has been the "open door" in China and a Chinese statesman has written: "What Canton thinks today, China thinks tomorrow." It was at Canton a century and a half ago that the clipper ships sent by Stephen Girard and John Jacob Astor first developed American trade with the Orient.

Truth Is Mighty

Truth is a very deadly thing at last when it confronts the clever liar at a place where he cannot escape. If he tries the air instead of the sea, the bizarre and fascinating little structure which was meant to defy the universe bursts into flame and perishes at contact with a flash of truth.—Dr. Lynn Hough.

Early Bottles Quaint

Metal molds were used in making the first American bottles, which were quaint in design and more often than not colored. Inscriptions, rough bottoms and uneven necks characterized these early products. The necks or mouths were uneven because the glass was cut with shears while still in a molten state.

Silver Fox Most Valued

The biological survey says that the silver fox is the most valuable individual pelt. The marten brings the highest price for the size of the pelt of all North American fur-bearing animals, while, taking into consideration, the total annual catch, the muskrat brings the greatest returns.

From Height to Height

Too Much Haste

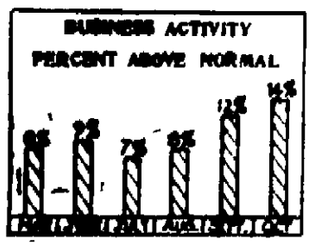

Spiritually, no less than physically, we tend to be in too great a hurry, and are too fond of smooth, comfortable "runs." We are impatient of "perseverance and delay" in reaching the goal of our material ambitions—yes, and too often also in the attainment. —Exchange.

Ring in the Sun

In 1905 during the total eclipse of the sun there was a peculiar phenomenon referred to as "the diamond ring." It was the result of an optical illusion or an illustration of refraction. Photographic taken of this gave the impression of a ring set with a diamond.

BUSINESS NOW 14% AHEAD.

Babson Park, Mass., Nov. 3, (Special).—General business conditions may now be fairly estimated to be showing an activity of about 14% above normal. Back in May the figure was only 8%, while July dropped back to 7%, and the estimated figure of 14% in October has been the highest figure of the past six months

Yet, as "Bradstreet's" well puts it, there is still a "shifting of activities" in evidence There should be a continuation of the present volume of business throughout the fall. This does not mean that we are on the eve of any boom or radical expansion, however, while in both the steel and automobile plants there is distinctly noted a further slowing down.

SAINT REMY.

Saint Remy, Nov. 3.—The Ladies' Aid and Missionary Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Clarence Beehler on Thursday afternoon, November 4, at 2:30 o'clock.

John Sharpe of New Bedford attended the funeral of M. F. Deyo on Sunday.

The O'Brien family of New Jersey were week-end guests of Schuyler Deyo.

Alfred Van Aken and George Moir of Stamford were week-end guests of Lorenzo Terpening and family.

The death of Matthew Deyo came as a shock to this community. He went to his work on Thursday morning in good health and about 9 o'clock was stricken with an illness from which he never recovered. As a kind friend and neighbor he will be sadly missed as well as in the Order of Red Men of which he was a charter member. He was also janitor of the St. Remy Church where he was a member for many years. The funeral at the home on Sunday afternoon was largely attended. The Rev. G. W. Gulick officiating. The Red Men rendered their service at the grave. The floral tributes were many and beautiful. His son now alone, has the sympathy of the community in his sorrow and loss.

Hospital's Color Scheme

A color scheme has been worked out for the different rooms at the hospital of the University of Denver. The X-ray room has walls of a violet red, which has great light absorption power. In the operating room a soft gray is used. The wards for disturbed patients have yellowish green walls because this color has been found to have a tranquilizing and cheerful influence. Rooms with a northern exposure have yellowish walls, and those with a southern outlook have sunshine gray walls and furnishings.

Big men don't always pack the punch

PLENTY of men in this country stand six feet one and over in their stockings. Benny Leonard, lightweight champion of the world is exactly 5 feet, 5 inches tall. But there's "quality" in his punch. How many of you stalwart six-footers would care to put on the gloves and step into the ring with Benny? Not so many that you'd have to call out the police to hold back the crowds.

And so it goes with cigars!

At any given price, you smokers of this land have several cigars to choose from. For the same money, you can often buy a longer, fatter, heavier cigar than Peter Schuyler. But you don't! Hundreds of thousands of you don't! You stick to Peter Schuyler.

Because there's "quality" in every puff!

You recognize that quality. You demand it. You realize that its equal cannot be obtained at the same price in a cigar that is larger than Peter Schuyler. For every Peter Schuyler is as large as a cigar of its price can possibly be and still remain a "quality smoke." And that's that!

P. S. If you've been seduced from the path of smoke righteousness by longer or fatter cigars, now is the time to see the error of your ways. Try Peter Schuyler to-day.

Youngsters' Duds for Autumn Wear

Simplicity Is Essence of Juvenile Frocks Being Shown in Paris.

They are unforgettable—these first moments which you spend planning, selecting and making the soft little dainties which are to usher a lusty-lunged infant into the world. The thrill when the first woolen hat was knitted—the tender satisfaction when the layette was finally assembled—touching the snug little booties which are going to warm ten pink toes—forever and ever these golden hours will stay in your memory.

Of course, you will look to Paris for your inspiration—you wouldn't think of selecting your own wardrobe without recourse to Paris—surely you can do no less for the wide-eyed stranger—first impressions are so important.

It isn't as though Paris were still maintaining the elaborate tradition which once made even its infants appear so overdressed to Anglo-American eyes. Indeed, writes a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune, the Paris toddlers of from two to six no longer bear the slightest resemblance to the furbelowed French doll type. Their clothes are simple, with few of the intricacies which are going to characterize the autumn frocks of their forebears. Paris places few strictures on the mode for the young idea, insisting only upon absolute simplicity and the softest sort of daintiness.

Many of the attractive models can be made or knitted at home.

Simple to Make.

Most of the costumes are surprisingly simple to make and even if you are not expert with the knitting needles you will be able to master these pretties in a short time. Nor will the silk frocks for the older girls give much trouble to anyone with a little experience at-home dressmaking. For instance, one youngster—a five-year-old—is wearing a very simply made dress of white crepe de chine. The touch of Paris is noted in the daintily applied bands, which are of rose crepe de chine.

Dignified fourteen-year-olds have been gowned by none other than Lanvin, who discards the intricate styling which she is using for grown-up frocks. A pretty little dress is made of navy blue crepe de chine—its appeal is made through the fabric contrast lent by a collar and trimming bands of red crepe de chine. The coat, perhaps a bit too difficult for the average home dressmaker, is made of green kasha and banded with bois de rose. The embroidery is in Chinese-green threads.

In another charming outfit is a young Frenchman all dressed up in a suit of royal blue linen crash with a plaited white pique collar. The dots on the sleeves and at the hem are embroidered in red and yellow. With a little help from the plaiter and the embroiderer this suit can be easily made even by the tyro.

Two nattily dressed tots on their way to their first party have been dressed to the moment by that most fastidious of mothers, the Frenchwoman. The outfit consists of an ensemble—the coat and frock each developed in rose mousseline de soie and trimmed with cream lace and frills of the mousseline. It will require rather expert needlework to make this ensemble—at the same time it is rather easier to sew than it looks.

As surely as she will later trip along on slender three-inch heels, so the French little girl starts life with soft, square-toed, flat-heeled shoes of brown or white kid that are worn with short socks for the first five or six years of her existence, later to be replaced by the demi-dressy beige silk stockings that copy those worn by the grown-ups.

Allow Kiddies to Choose.

When possible it is an excellent plan to permit the older child to express his own taste in the selection of clothes. Of course, there are certain necessary limitations to such an idea, which will vary according to the girl's age, but no matter how tender her years, she should be permitted to make at least some slight decision concerning her new wardrobe. If there are no easier facilities at hand, the selection may be made from the models shown in print, which covers a sufficiently wide range of styles and which visualize the effect of the frock for the less imaginative youngster. The object of this experiment, which is favored by prominent educators, is to foster an independent spirit in the child.

One of the "other things" that preoccupies the modern Frenchwoman's thoughts is the dressing of her children. To her motherhood is the most important factor of her existence. The children must be exquisitely dressed. In the days when Maman wore frills and furbelows this often meant the curtailment of many infantile pleasures, for little frocks were so dainty and ethereal they would scarcely have survived the rigors of a good romp.

Today all this has changed. Maman has become très sport. She believes in exercise as a means of preserving the slim youthfulness of her figure. Little girls are encouraged to play tennis and golf at an early age in the hope that they may be latent Lenglens and Leitches. Their little jumper frocks are far more practical than those worn by their elders, and quite as attractive. Plain crepe de chines or jersey cloths, according to the temperature of the day, are made up into the most adorable little skirts, just reaching the wearer's knee with straight jumpers often embroidered with a monogram or some amusing motif. The turndown Peter Pan collar with a narrow cravat of the same material is a popular neck finish—the shallow V opening is its greatest rival.

Narrow Belts at Waistline.

Small girls' frocks do not indicate the waistline except by a narrow belt that does not break the straightness of the silhouette from shoulder to hem. Everything accentuates the lithe boyishness of the modern maiden's figure.

Printed fabrics are much in favor for girls just about to go to school. The plaited skirt of red and white or blue and white foulard is sometimes made to wear with a straight jumper corsage in plain red or blue that may be finished with a kilted ruffle forming a foulard jabot at the neck.

One of the prettiest sights in France is the children's hour in the Avenue du Bois de Boulogne on any sunny morning. Tiny tots of all ages in the most exquisite attire play under the watchful eye of the English nurse or Peasant Nounou. They add to the gayety of the flower-decked lawns. Pale pink and pale blue, yellow, green, mauve and red are colors that appear in the diminutive frocks and knickerbockers. Checks in all colors from black and white to the more fanciful combinations have always been popular for French children's clothes. As a rule the smaller the child the larger the check.

Frock and Hat to Match.

The leading characteristic of modern French fashions for children is simplicity. Line in all its beauty dominates the abbreviated garments worn by Jacqueline and Germaine. For special occasions some elaboration of detail is permissible, but it usually takes the form of fine embroidery or exquisite lace and does not detract from the childish effect of the whole.

A hat to match is a feature of French juvenile fashions. Here again simplicity is the first requirement of mademoiselle's flag cloche.

Spanish Vogue Continues

There is a vogue at present for hats and gowns of Spanish inspiration. Spanish sailor hats have made their appearance, many dark-haired misses looking decidedly Spanish in them. Spanish shawls are worn over evening frocks of cerise tulle with many-ruffled skirts and fitted bodices. Round loop earrings of black jet or of old gold often accompany the Spanish theme.

WHO PROFITS MOST ?

Lumber, oil and metal, three of the great natural resources of the West, are indispensable to American family life. Each of these three industries has been carried on by a type of men who recognized no obstacles. Each industry has to cope with the forces of nature in their most destructive forms. It takes big men to pioneer and develop such industries; to give the public constantly increasing and better service, employes better working conditions and good wages, and the government a constantly greater proportion of total income in the form of taxes.

Our primary industries, which are the mainstay of our prosperity in all sections of the country, should receive every possible encouragement at the hands of the people and the government, for it is the people and the government who profit most by the successful operation of such properties.

SWORDS AND PLOWSHARES.

It is surprising to read that World War veterans refused to participate in the dedication of a soldiers' monument at Plainfield, N. J., because of the inscription on it of the well known and often quoted prophecy uttered some twenty-six centuries ago by the Hebrew prophet, Isaiah: "They shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." To confuse such a prophecy of a longed-for millenium in the future—the hope and dream of war-weary peoples in all ages—with modern "pacifism" of the objectionable sort would seem to display an unexpected lack of intelligence. Even admitting that the inscription is not a particularly appropriate one for a war memorial, it remains to be said that it is harmless as well as worthy as an aspiration, and, indeed, is in complete harmony with the sentiment of this country when in 1917 it went into battle with a view to "end war."

Have the protesting veterans forgotten the often repeated declaration in 1917-1918 that it was a "war to end war?" The Hague Tribunal, the Court of International Justice, the League of Nations, were brought into existence by the world's desire to prevent war, and this should be the chief purpose of even armies in an enlightened age. The American Legion itself should live to foster peace rather than to encourage war. The Plainfield veterans are right to condemn "pacifism" of the sort that draws the line even at the defense of one's country when attacked, but in this case they have acted from lack of intelligent appreciation of a sentiment in itself altogether admirable.

AMERICAN FILMS ABROAD.

It has been repeatedly asserted that American films, which are shipped and shown all over the world, are conveying a distorted and harmful impression of American life. It has even been said not only that Americans suffer in the estimation of distant peoples but that the darker races have lost their former respect for the dominating white race, and that in consequence British statesmen, concerned for the stability of their country's many and far dependencies, are much disturbed. In view of all this it is interesting to find that Dr. Herbert Adams Gibbons of Princeton University, who has been in Europe much of the time during the past few years, takes a hopeful view of the influence of the American "pictures" abroad. He not only says that "in the most remote regions of Europe one finds Hollywood setting the fashions in clothes and in the way people live in their homes," but expresses the conviction that "the films are a silent agency for good understanding, making America known and liked, and they are more powerfully working in our favor than the campaigns of newspapers work against us."

If we accept this as true, we can the more readily understand why the high commissioner of New Zealand has just charged in London that American films are doing "great harm" in that far country and complained that they are 95 per cent of the films shown there. But there is no prejudice, commercial or other, in the expressed belief of traveling Americans that film dramatization of sexual irregularities and crime are conveying to foreigners a distorted view of American life.

London journalists who are making fun of "American excitement over visiting royalty" would be pleased to know that one bystander on Broadway said to another: "So that was Queen Marie. Well, I sure thought she was a fire-engine." And well he might, with motorcycles dashing ahead of her speeding limousines blowing sirens to open the traffic.

That Body of Yours

ROUND SHOULDERS.

It is unfortunate that some of our school boards, in their wisdom, are trying to do away with physical training in the schools.

One can understand the prejudice toward things military, but that the child should not have the instruction on how to stand and sit correctly, how to have an erect carriage, sound lungs, and sound heart, is to my mind nothing short of criminal.

As I've said before, the only young men who were rejected for military service, because the chest was too small, were those whose parents would not let them engage in sports when they were at the growing age, for fear of injury.

Now what is the cause of the round shoulders or hollow chests we see in children?

It may be simply due to general weakness of the body, and so the shoulders droop forward from general weakness of the muscles.

Sometimes it is a matter of poor eyesight, and the youngster will stoop forward in school or elsewhere in order to get a better view of things.

Suspenders or braces sometimes tend to pull the shoulders forward also. Sitting in school where the desks and seats do not fit the child, may also cause round shoulders.

But perhaps the main cause is the weakness of the abdominal muscles. A youngster who does not play, who does not bend his body forward, backwards and sideways, in all the little games of childhood, is going to be weak across the abdomen.

How does this affect the shoulders?

The abdominal muscles hold you in at the waist, not allowing the abdomen to sag. If your abdomen does not sag, the shoulders are not drawn forward.

Simply stand sideways by your mirror, and watch the shoulders when the abdomen is drawn in or backward. The shoulders go back and the chest stands out.

Now the physical training in the schools and the games of the playground all tend to develop these abdominal muscles.

Let your child take this form of exercise and also encourage him to play. It will keep his shoulders back, and give his lungs more room.

Today's Story in New York History

Lands Upon Which the German Palatines Settled Sold to Seven Partners, November 5, 1714.

Queen Anne, knowing that the Germans were in general peaceable, loyal subjects, and lovers of liberty from principle and anxious to increase the population of her American colonies, held out strong inducements to this hardy and industrious race of people to become British subjects. She offered to give them lands and furnish certain necessary tools and provisions if they would settle on the frontier of certain colonies. An added inducement was that they could practice their own form of religious worship.

The generous offers of Queen Anne induced thousands to cross the Atlantic and settle in the wilds of America.

On June 14, 1710, seventy families of poor Palatine soldiers arrived in New York, but the season had too far advanced to allow those who intended to become frontier settlers to select approved locations and raise their sustenance for that season. They erected temporary huts, settling in seven squads or messes, each with a head commissary, through whom they received their provisions from an agent of the Queen, until they were permanently located.

In the spring of 1711, those who had not chosen to remain at the camps, moved up the river to Albany, then sent several of their number into the Mohawk and Schoharie Valleys, to spy out desirable locations for permanent settlement.

The several settlements were called dorfs, signifying towns, and the whole number of Germans who located in the Schoharie Valley in 1711, must have been between five and seven hundred.

For several years these Germans had most of their grain floured at Schenectady, traveling there in parties of fifteen to twenty at a time, to be better able to defend themselves against wild beasts.

Not long after the Germans settled in Schoharie, the Dutch began a settlement in Vrooman's Land, several miles above Weiser's Dorf.

Adam Vrooman, of Schenectady, took a royal patent for this land, August 26, 1714. Previous to obtaining the royal title, Vrooman had received two Indian conveyances, one August 22, 1711, the other dated April 30, 1714.

The Germans had not long been in possession of the Schoharie flats, and were just beginning to live comfortably, when Nicholas Bayard, an agent from the British crown, appeared in their midst. He issued a notice that to every householder who would make known to him the boundaries of the land he had taken, he would give a deed in the name of his sovereign.

The Germans, ignorant, though honest, mistook altogether the object of the generous offer, and supposing it designed to bring them again under tyrannic land holders, resolved to kill Bayard.

Consequently, early the next morning, the honest burghers, armed with guns and pitch forks, surrounded the hotel, and demanded the person of Bayard, dead or alive.

Landlord Han Yerry Smith refused to surrender his guest and the house was besieged throughout the day. Sixty balls were fired by the assailants through the roof. Bayard, who was armed, occasionally returned the fire with the design of frightening them.

Having spent the last round of their ammunition, and hunger beginning to gnaw, the siege was raised, and the heroes of the bloodless day dispersed to their homes.

Bayard left Schoharie in the night and from Schenectady sent a message to Schoharie, offering to give to such as should appear there with a single ear of corn, acknowledge him the regal agent, and name the bounds of it, a free deed and lasting title to their lands.

No one felt inclined to call upon the agent whose life they had attempted to take. After waiting some time Bayard went to Albany and disposed of the land they occupied to five individuals.

This patent was granted to Myndert Schuyler, Peter Van Brugh, Robert Livingston, Jr., John Schuyler and Henry Wileman, the purchasers. It was executed at Fort Orange, New York, November 3, 1714, in the first year of the reign of George I, by Robert Hunter, governor of the province, in behalf of the king.

This patent was for ten thousand acres, and Lewis Morris, Jr., and Andrus Coeman were employed to survey and divide the land. They obtained shares in the patent and since that time it has been distinguished as the lands of the seven partners.

The seven partners called upon the Palatines who dwelt upon them either to take leases, purchase or quit them altogether. They would do neither, declaring that Queen Anne had given them the lands, and they desired no better title.

Trouble ensued, a sheriff was lynched and other acts of violence perpetrated. Leaders were finally arrested and the result was the removal of the Germans to Canajoharie, Stone Arabia, German Flats and to lands in Pennsylvania.

Lanvin Turns Her Talents to Designing Spectacular Pajamas—More and More Smart Women Appear to Approve Them as Negligees and for Sleeping.

There are pajamas and pajamas—the smart, often sensational lounging type, and those that are quiet enough to allow slumber. Lanvin, who delights in the picturesque, has turned her talents to creating lounging pajamas that are a luxurious combination of velvet and metal cloth in the richest colorings. The trousers often have a turned cuff, and the coat has all the earmarks of a smart blouse or jumper. Many an autumn trousseau boasts such a novelty, and peignoirs and robes of the intime persuasion are quite as magnificent as evening wraps, and are fashioned of the kindred materials.

Whatever it is about which one is writing, it seems to be necessary to head the list of best-liked materials with velvet. It may not be a season when we are "on velvet," but it is certainly one in which we are in velvet, from the toppling crowns of our Black Velvet Stitched in Silver and Gold Reveals an Inspiration from Lanvin, in a Jacket, Which Tops Trousers of Silver Cloth.

Congo hats to the toes of our evening slippers, though these may be tipped with gold. More likely still, the heels will be of gold and the slippers of brocade, kid, moire, or any of the things of which the modish slipper is made.

It appears to be a fad to affect black negligees, but they are usually liberally supplied with color, either in their lining or in some decorative scheme. Fringed negligees are fascinating, and in some instances are much like a cleverly folded shawl.

The woman who appreciates coziness as well as chic in her negligee will be sure to like the quilted robes that are so much in evidence. These may be stitched with metal thread, and are usually fashioned of taffeta or satin crepe.

SOMETHING NEW IN VEGETABLE COOKERY

MISS FANNIE C. KIFF.

A new idea in the cooking of vegetables will be demonstrated by Miss Fannie C. Kiff, of the Kingston Gas and Electric Home Service Department, in this week's lecture demonstrations. The women of this community are cordially invited to attend any of these meetings, which come on Wednesday at 7:30 p. m., and on Thursday afternoon at 2:30, at 5 Field Court.

Food authorities assert that there should be in the daily diet two vegetables, besides potatoes. To keep her menus from being tiresome taxes the ingenuity of the housewife, but the Home Service has some suggestions about all-vegetable meals and special vegetable plates which should make pleasing variations in the family diet.

The housewife will be interested to see, at this week's meetings, how her labor, and the flavor and valuable food constituents in vegetables can be saved, without the use of any special utensils.

On Friday at 2:30 will be the first of a series of special lessons on household management, the subject, "New Methods of Laundering" should appeal to every home maker. Dry cleaning, stain removal and sanitary laundry conditions are some of the points that will be discussed. The meeting will be held at 5 Field Court.

REFRESHING DRINKS

Mint is so refreshing in flavor and so attractive when used as a garnish, that even the word reminds us of delicious drinks. The famous mint juleps of the South were usually made with liquor, but one may serve a drink of fruit juices with nothing but pleasure in the consequences.

Mint Cup.—Express the juice from five lemons, add the leaves from a dozen stalks of mint, one and one-half cupfuls of sugar and one-half cupful of water, cover and let stand thirty minutes. Just before serving pour into a pitcher over a large piece of ice and add three bottles of chilled ginger ale. Put a sprig of mint in the top of each glass or a bunch in the top of the pitcher for garnish.

Pineapple Lemonade.—Make a sirup by boiling one cupful of sugar and two cupfuls of water ten minutes, add the juice of three lemons and a can of grated pineapple; cool, strain and add four cupfuls of ice water.

Ever Ready Lemonade.—Add a cupful of sugar to two cupfuls of water and boil together twelve minutes; add a third of a cupful of lemon juice, cool and turn into a jar. Keep in the ice chest and serve with a few slices of fresh lemon for a garnish.

Chocolate Milk Shake.—Melt four squares of unsweetened chocolate, add one and three-fourths cupfuls of sugar and a pinch of salt; pour on gradually, stirring constantly, one and one-half cupfuls of boiling water. Boil five minutes. Cool and put into a jar, keep on ice. For chocolate milk shake add two and a half tablespoonfuls of the strup, one egg and two-thirds of a cupful of milk, with two tablespoonfuls of chopped ice.

A delightful drink which may always be at hand for an emergency is grape juice, with ginger ale. The combination is good and the rest of the ginger ale makes a most refreshing drink.

Woolen Materials Offered for Fall

Fluffy Fabrics Are to Have Call for Wear During Cold Weather.

Considerable interest has been shown lately in voile de laine, the familiar woolen voile of some years ago, says a Paris correspondent in the New York Times. Possibly because of the very lovely color combinations it suggests, Jenny particularly favors this material and has used it for display at Deauville, in an interesting gown of navy blue voile over a bright red underdress. The gleam of red through the semi-transparent outer goods is charming. The full skirt of this gown has huge swirls of navy blue military braid stitched upon it, the swirls being repeated on the lower part of the bishop sleeves.

Another gown from this same house, shown at the famous seaside resort, used the navy blue voile over a white foundation. There was a vest of white, inserts of white on the lower sleeves, and, most surprising touch of all, a band of red bordering the white crepe satin underskirt.

The wide sash of grosgrain ribbon has appeared frequently of late. These sashes are, in reality, very wide, but are too apparently so in front, where they are laid in folds. The bow, tied low in the back, is very stiff and dignified and the ends reach nearly to the skirt hem. Usually these are in black or in a color to harmonize with the gown. Cheruit, as well as Callot, has been known this season by the huge bows without ends that cover the front of her gowns, though these are made of the material of the dress.

Inspection of the new fabrics now being supplied to the dressmaking houses of Paris by the great French weaving establishments gives one a very good idea of what materials are to be featured for our fall and winter garments. Rodier, most famous of French wool weavers and the originator of kasha, has a new soft fabric called "zibilkasha," resembling very closely the cashmere of our mother's day. The suede-like finish of this material is very beautiful and promises to be more durable than that of duvetyn.

An older goods of very much the same weave, broadcloth, seems likely to share in the popularity accorded this new zibilkasha. Many of the bloused-back coats shown in the mid-season collections are of broadcloth.

For coats for rough wear, Rodier has a luxuriantly soft, woolly cloth called "Buravellic," fluffy as a fine woolen blanket on the right side though the under surface is of hard twisted threads. This goods, which comes in all standard colors, has an intriguing blurred look, the result of the warp being in a lighter tone than the woof. These two tones are frankly separated and repeated in a novel checked pattern in this same fabric, called "pied de poule," designed to be used with the plain material for trimming contrast. This check, which is quite unlike the usual square check, gets its name from its design.

Voile and Crepe Frocks Feature Handdrawn Work

This is an era of sheer frocks. For elegant afternoon gowns a favorite medium is georgette crepe in practical colors. These frocks, though sheer, assume a distinguished aspect through clever designing either in a tailored way or by discreet use of expert handwork. Handdrawn effects such as the picture shows are especially pleasing.

Red Is Popular

Not only is red used alone for many of the smartest evening dresses, but it is especially favored for sports and daytime frocks in white combinations. The little two-piece frock of white crepe de chine, tub silk or Chinese damask, with a tie and belt of red, is among the most successful models. Almost invariably the hat is also red and the bit of color is repeated in the bag.

Tea Gown

A tea gown on the chartreuse shade, is trimmed with green and silver lace, while the roses holding the drapery at the front of the bodice, with its oddly shaped short sleeves, shade from pale yellow to rose.

Monetary Temptations

Temptations connected with money are indeed among the most insidious and among the most powerful to which we are exposed. They have probably a wider empire than drink, and, unlike the temptations that spring from animal passions, they strengthen rather than diminish with

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MRS. ANGORA GOAT

"In the winter," said Mrs. Angora Goat, "I dream of the spring when the young will come to give us so much joy and pleasure.

"All we mother Angora goats will welcome out little ones when the springtime comes, for it is then that they will arrive.

"And now that it is cooler weather, I dream and I think and I plan for those days to come when we will all have young angora goats playing around us, cheering us by their games and their playfulness and making us so proud of their beauty.

"The keeper will give them hay and grain and they will think it tastes so good.

"Ah, the winter may be the time when some animals think of how well they feel.

"It may be the time when some animals are sleeping.

"It is the time when the little bears all arrive.

"But I spend my winter dreaming wonderful day dreams of the spring and of all the young leaves coming out on the trees as they did last spring.

"I think of the flowers bursting into bloom as they did last spring, and as they all do every spring.

"But, best of all, the children will come, the angora goat children, and what would the world be like without children?"

Mother Angora Goat shivered at the very thought.

"But there will always be children," said Mother Angora Goat.

"Yes, there will always be children."

Then some of the other Mrs. Angora Goats came over and talked to Mother Angora, and they all talked of the children and the springtime and of how nicely the keeper took care of them.

They talked of the cold weather which they had been having—really quite cold for this time of the year—just as all in the zoo had been having, but they always went back to the one subject of talk—the springtime—when the little angora goats would come to prance and jump and play and scamper over the rocks and little hills in their zoo home.

And Mrs. Angora Goat made up a Zoolet Lullaby which she sent to the Zoolet Society.

This was the Zoolet Lullaby sent by Mrs. Angora Goat:

My darlings, prance and play,
My darlings, yes, be gay!
My darlings, jump and scamper,
My darlings, romp and play.

My darlings, dance and leap,
My darlings, never weep,
My darlings, frolic all you will,
My darlings, dance and leap.

My darlings, then you rest,
And dream dreams of the best,
And gather health and strength,
My darlings, then you rest.

My darlings, sleep, sleep, sleep,
Don't even give a peep,
At the noisy world outside,
When you sleep, sleep, sleep.

Most all flowers fade quickly except the blooming idiots.

At the telephone: Hello, who is this?

Voice from other end: Well, if you don't know yourself, silly, how do you expect me to tell?

Trying to keep a good man down is like trying to keep a good for nothing one up.

Magistrate—"You say the officer arrested you while you were quietly minding your own business?"

Prisoner—"Yes, your worship."

"You were quietly attending to your own business, making no noise or disturbance of any kind?"

"None whatever, sir."

"It seems very strange. What is your business?"

"I'm a burglar."

They called him hen because he was always laying for somebody.

Isn't it queer that two million parents can bring up one million children a million different ways and still have them human?

Many a father is worse chicken pecked than hen pecked.

Another figure worth improving is a bank balance.

The parrots from Boston say: "Pauline desires a cracker."

She—How did you recognize me with my mask on?

He—Why, have you forgotten? We used to bathe together quite a lot last summer!

A centenarian bemoans the fact that girls nowadays think of practically nothing. He's right—it's clothes, clothes, clothes all the time.

Before marriage she gets nearer and nearer, and after marriage, dearer and dearer.

Vaudeville Note.

A quartet is where all four think the other three can't sing.

"Pa," said little Herbert, "a man's wife is his better half, isn't she?"

His Father—"We are told so, my son."

Little Herbert—"Then, if a man marries twice there isn't anything left of him, is there?"

"Who invented the hole in the doughnut?"

"Oh, some fresh-air fiend, I suppose."

"Madge married a conductor and got a divorce the next week."

"He must have told her where to get off at."

We have always wondered whether Solomon kept on speaking terms with all his mothers-in-law.

An Unanswerable Prayer.

"Please, Lord, make me white lak other chillun," prayed little black Pansy one night.

"Whut yo mean, chile?" exclaimed her mother, shocked. "How come yo wanta be white?"

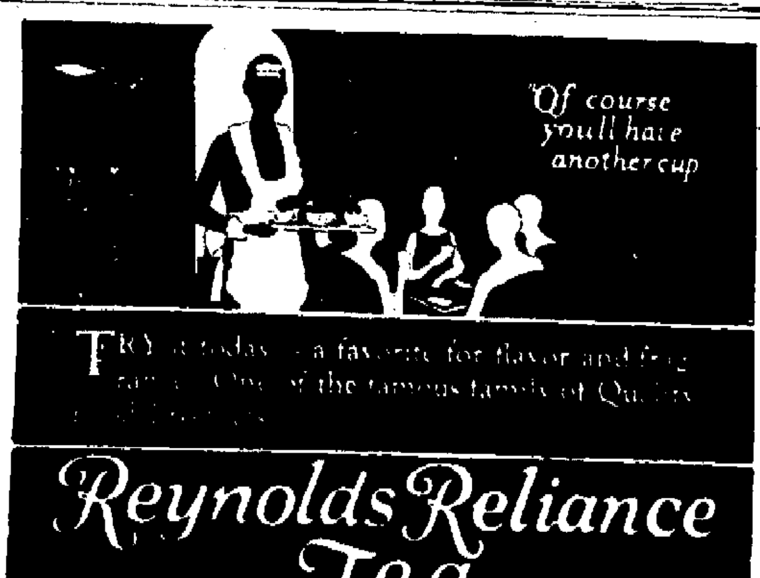

"Jes so's I c'n git good an' dirty jes once, mammy," replied small Pansy."

Health turns the Clock Backward

It All Begins With a Cold

How often have you heard a story of a siege of illness, that did not start with a "cold"? Because most illnesses start that way, people are learning not to trifle with a cold. Few have learned, however, why they have that cold, what it indicates.

C. C. FROUDE.

A so-called "cold" is the first sign of lowered bodily resistance to external conditions. There is spinal nerve irritation, resulting in deficient elimination, wastes accumulate, and trouble begins. When a "cold" appears, visit your chiropractor at once!

COLD CONQUERED IN 48 HOURS.

"After suffering for a week with a severe cold, constantly growing worse, I called on a chiropractor. He adjusted me then, again seven hours later and twice the second day. INSTRUCTION IN RED CROSS FIRST AID SAFETY FACTOR

Its Industrial and Educational Service Spreads Throughout the United States.

Signs that the United States is awake to the menace of its increasing accident toll are apparent in the growing interest in first aid instruction as offered by experts of the American Red Cross.

Approximately 20,000 juniors and seniors completed the First Aid course during the fiscal year, passed rigid examinations and received Red Cross First Aid certificates. This represents an increase of 2,500 over the preceding year, and this gain is attributed to the emphasis on health education by various public bodies including not alone the American Red Cross and Government agencies, but life and accident insurance companies, and athletic and recreational groups.

In Dallas, Texas, playground supervisors are required to hold First Aid certificates. In many high schools the subject is included in the regular curriculum. In order to assist in training instructors for this phase of the work, special courses have been conducted in the summer schools of such leading institutions as the University of Maryland and the University of Virginia. Instruction was continued during the year at Loyola University, New Orleans; University of California, San Francisco; University of Kentucky; Temple University, Philadelphia; Peabody Teachers' College and similar educational centers.

Work with the public utilities group has shown an exceptional increase during the year. Classes conducted by fourteen of the associated Bell Telephone companies were continued with increased interest and a number of the companies sponsored intensive courses in First Aid for instructors.

The First Aid Instruction Car of the Red Cross was busy throughout the year. In the 126 cities visited the car 900 meetings were held with an aggregate attendance of 94,000 persons.

Membership of the people in the American Red Cross makes such services possible, the annual opportunity of pledging support through membership being offered in the Roll Call from November 11 to 25 this year.

Educators Give Junior Red Cross High Praise

Growing recognition by leading educators all over the world has been an achievement of the Junior Red Cross in the last fiscal year.

Included in those which have taken especially favorable cognizance of Junior Red Cross efforts are the World Federation of Education Associations at Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1925, the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association, at Washington, 1926, and the National Education Association in Philadelphia, June, 1926. Various State educational bodies have confirmed this approval, the report adds.

As a phase of their work, the Juniors have developed contacts through exchange of correspondence, with similar Junior organizations in virtually every part of the world, and through the development of this medium many leaders see a better chance for world peace in future.

An especially notable development of Junior organization has occurred in Porto Rico, with an enrollment of 157,000, and the Philippines, with 910,000.

More than 5,000,000 American Juniors are at work in this organization of the American Red Cross. Their example is held out by the American Red Cross during the Tenth Annual Roll Call for membership, as one for all Americans to endorse by joining the parent organization during the period November 11 to 25 this year.

War Over, But Red Cross Nurses Are Ever On Duty

Has the romantic picture of the Red Cross Nurse faded with the war days? It has been more than 12 years since that first contingent of brave women to go to the war zone sailed from America to make an undying record of service behind every battle front.

For an answer to their whereabouts today, it is only necessary to refer to any large disaster of recent years in which the Red Cross rendered relief. Wherever there was injury and suffering the Red Cross nurse will be found to have been on active duty.

These nurses are enrolled under the American Red Cross as a reserve of the Army, Navy and U. S. Public Health Service, at all times ready to serve in war or peace. This reserve of Red Cross nurses aggregates 42,163 women who have met the highest standard in the nursing profession.

The Roll Call for membership in the Red Cross this year is November 11 to 25, when the American people identify themselves with the broad services of the organization by joining its ranks.

Join the Red Cross November 11 to 25.

GAROD ELECTRIC POWER RADIO

Ushers in New POWER-ERA of Radio Reception!

SIMPLY—Plug into light socket at cost of ½¢ per hour

Electric POWER captures New Range and Wealth of Tone

—the low fundamental tones that demand power to reproduce . . . the delicate, difficult overtones, too!

Most radio tone is "thin" and distorted because the receiver lacks the power units that reach down low enough for the "fundamental" notes. Bass notes are the foundation of musical tone. Now, Electric POWER enriches and completes the musical picture adding new high and low notes and fine color shadings all along the line.

New Garod-EA has power equivalent to 10 "B" Batteries. Power tubes 100 times more powerful than standard tubes. A Super Transformer that steps up the exhaustless, steady flow of the house current to 450 volts. Neutrodyne, that silences all "squeals" and guarantees you the world's finest radio selectivity.

By eliminating the nuisance and expense of all batteries, eliminators, chargers and attachments, new-era Garod achieves the ultimate in operating simplicity. Nothing to do but switch on and tune in. No objectionable hum. No costly, troublesome recharging and replacing of batteries.

Secret of Tone Quality

The ordinary radio is limited to notes from 300 to 3,000 vibrations per second . . . half of the piano keyboard. Electric Power Garod reaches low "C", 32 vibrations and on up past the highest piano note of 4,138 vibrations to astonishing 6,000. NOW—entire keyboard reproduced by Electric Power!

You never will realize the beauty, depth and richness of Electric POWER tone until you have heard it. Ask your Garod Dealer to turn Garod-EA on full-power. Thrilling, voluminous dance music; then by a simple turn of the control . . . the sweetest melody you have ever heard. New in principle. New in tone.

Before you invest in a new set, spend a few minutes comparing Electric Power with battery-power tone. New Garod-EA is the forerunner of a new epoch in radio reception. Perfectly amazing!

Coach Thistlethwaite Is Pleased

Head Coach Glenn F. Thistlethwaite of Northwestern university is in great spirits over his talent for this year, and also says Baker has fully recovered from his injuries that kept him back last year, and expects him to flash as he did in 1924, when he was a unanimous all-conference selection at halfback. League Game at Armory Tonight

The Greenpoint-Trenton team that has been making wonderful progress in the National League will appear for the first time this year on the armory court tonight. This five was defeated by Kingston in Greenpoint the latter part of last week and the local boys will endeavor to repeat the task this evening.

Both teams have manifested that they intend to reach the top of the list and although the King-Pats are now in fourth place they have added new men to their lineup, who will, it is predicted jack up their standing. "Swede" Grimsted will play the pivot position this evening against "Stretch" Anderson and as both boys have reputations as excellent tappers the combat between them promises to be well worth watching. Artie Powers another addition to the Kingston team may also get a chance to help them score a win.

The Greenpointers mean to hold their present standing in the league and will endeavor to play all around the Kingston team. Jerry Sullivan of basketball fame throughout many localities will probably be assigned to hold Borgman in check but the "blond thunderbolt" is after the scoring honors again this season and it looks as though Sullivan will have no easy game to play this evening.

After the game dancing wil be held and Harry Maisenhelder's orchestra will furnish the music.

Sport Briefs Of All Sorts

(By The Associated Press.)

Eddie Tryon, former Colgate star, now an important member of the New York Yankee football team is crowding the colorful Red Grange out of the spotlight. Tryon played a prominent part in a Grange victory at Philadelphia last week and was the outstanding figure in a rout of Rock Island in New York yesterday. Tryon scored two touchdowns, was a factor in the scoring of two others, and contributed three points after touchdown.

Jim Thorpe, nominated as an All-American halfback in 1911 and re-elected in 1912, gave only moral support to a tie negotiated by his Canton team with the New York Giants yesterday. The Indian star of other days sat on the bench and nursed two broken ribs, suffered in a game in Detroit Sunday, while the Bulldogs were coming from behind to tie the Giants at seven all.

Great Princeton football players of other days have donned uniforms against the Tigers to prepare them for their battle with Harvard at Cambridge Saturday. Gil Roy, Glick, Gorman, Keck, Dickinson, Baker, Vittmer and Vinn were some of the familiar names appearing in the lineup against the Princeton varsity yesterday. The result of the clash indicated that "old men for counsel, young men for war," still holds good, as 1926 edition of Princeton football scored four touchdowns.

Sharpening of their appetites, it now develops, was a favor in developing the fighting spirit that carried Columbia's football eleven to an unexpected victory over Cornell. Buffetted about one afternoon in practice by the freshman team, the varsity was ordered by Head Coach Crowley to stay on the field until it scored on the yearlings. Crowley sent for his dinner on the sidelines and prepared for the siege. The sight of food quickly inspired the Lions to scoring frenzy.

THE DISCOVERY OF INK

THE DISCOVERY of printing ink is shrouded in mystery and must be relagated to the realm of conjecture. In all probability it was discovered in the ancient Empire of China, shortly before the Christian era. However doubtful the date of discovery, there is no doubt about the manifold advantages of ink today. Thousands of gallons every minute are used daily by the press. With it the reports of The Associated Press which are distributed from all parts of the world, are made accessible to millions of newspaper readers.

White Shirts of Fans Cause of Good Hurling

"Sheriff" John Blake of the Chicago Cubs recently pitched a one-hit game against the Cardinals in St. Louis. He does not attribute it to his luck or his control. White shirts are the secret, says Blake.

"The centerfield" bleachers were jammed with fans in their shirt sleeves, and they made a solid white background for the ball when it came toward the plate. All I had to do was keep the ball high, so it would come out of those shirts, and the batter couldn't see it. That's the time until it was past them.

"I've pitched dozens of better ball games than that one and got beat. But I don't think Alexander wasn't using those white shirts either. He was keeping the ball high and inside.

"I wasn't figuring on how many hits, didn't think about it. But I never saw a pitcher who worked a no-hit game who had any luck afterward, so I'm not worrying about Southworth's."

How Joe Turnesa Hates Those Pesky Straw Hats

Joe Turnesa, who lost the national golf title to Bobby Jones by one stroke will always hate straw hats.

Freak happenings often decide big sporting events. Joe can blame a straw hat for the loss of the title and financially about $75,000. That is the value leading professionals place on the winning of the national open golf titles.

Now for the tale of the costly straw hat. As Joe set himself to make a brassie shot to the home green, a straw hat of a spectator standing near by blew off and dropped near Turnesa with a dull thud. Without doubt it upset him, for he topped the shot and took an undeserved five. That one slip was the margin by which Jones won the title. It cost the former Italian caddie a snug fortune.

While Jones will not profit financially from his victory, Turnesa's golf writings and exhibition matches would have been able to feather his nest for life.

Sandlot Sport Has Not Declined, Says Landis

If there is a decline in sandlot baseball today it is owing to the lack of proper grounds and not to the American youth's lack of interest in the game, in the opinion of Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, national baseball commissioner.

"Why, even the caddies at the country clubs lug the 30 pounds of golf equipment only for the pay they get. They can be seen chasing and whacking a baseball when at leisure moments," Judge Landis declared. "Just any little stand to do odd jobs for earning money and schemed for an opportunity to play baseball."

Penn Gets a Waterproof Covering for Gridiron

The University of Pennsylvania football team will have a dry playing field in the future, regardless of the elements, according to Ernest B. Cozens, graduate-manager of athletics. Cozens announced that the council on athletics has purchased a covering for the gridiron that will be waterproof.

Howard Ehmke, the Athletics' right-handed pitcher, who represents a mid-western company, consummated the sale with the university. He is authority for the statement that big league baseball clubs have found the covering indispensable and that when the cover is removed after rain or snow the field is dry.

The covering will be 90 by 160 yards, and will be of ten-ounce army duck, treated chemically to make it absolutely waterproof.

HOW TO GAIN 5 POUNDS IN 30 DAYS

If You Don't Do It, Get Your Money Back.

Ask any druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. They cost but little, are sugar coated and as pleasant to take as candy.

It's the new pleasant way to take nasty Cod Liver Oil and will not upset the most delicate stomach.

Skinny men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good, healthy, solid flesh, and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on five pounds or more in 30 days. As a matter of fact, all druggists are authorized to return your money if you don't take on five pounds in 30 days.

"DEAD" MAN COMES BACK TO FACE MAN WHO DESERTED HIM

Trapper Vows to Kill Man Guilty of Unforgivable Sin of North.

Fort Smith.—A dead man has come out of the frozen Arctic to accuse Francois Champlain, a half-breed trapper, of the unforgivable sin of the North. Back through a hell of starvation and suffering Joe Boblette, a brown ghost of a once powerful man, has come to have his vengeance.

Champlain and Boblette were partners once. Then Champlain became jealous of Boblette. He left him alone in the Arctic, without dogs, a gun, or food. And now the half-breed must pay the price.

Police Were Suspicious.

Police were suspicious when a year ago Champlain returned to Fort Smith, from his trap lines near the big bend of the Mackenzie river. He said that Boblette had become snow-blind and wandered away from him. He stuck to his story, and the case apparently was dropped.

The other night, though, a living skeleton knocked at the door of the mounted police headquarters in Fort

"You Dirty Dog! I'll Tear the Heart Out of You!"

Smith. It was Boblette, at the end of a torturous trek over miles and miles of ice and snow. Living on berries and birds' eggs, he was almost starving. His body was battered and torn from his march out of the Arctic.

Men Faced One Another.

State police brought Champlain and Boblette face to face in their court.

"You dirty dog! I'll tear the heart out of you!" snarled Boblette.

Champlain, cringing in terror, confessed the unforgivable sin of the North. He was sent to prison for a year and warned never to return to the land where he is known.

He will not. For the last words he heard as he left the court were these:

"If you ever come back, I'll kill you as sure as my name is Boblette."

Weird Light Hovers Over Little Cemetery

Claremore, Okla.—A weird light in the form of a red ball of fire, which farmers declare has appeared for several consecutive nights over a country cemetery near here, is causing scores of northern Oklahoma residents to plan watch parties in an attempt to explain the phenomenon. Some are of the belief it is St. Elmo's fire.

Farmers living nearby say the light appears between nine and eleven o'clock each night, glows brightly for several minutes and gradually fades out to appear again in another place. At no time, observers claim, has it appeared more than a half mile from the cemetery.

The light was first noticed by Roy Bryant, who lives with his parents on a nearby farm. Bryant and several neighbors claim to have investigated, but on approaching the "ball of fire," it disappeared. Its regular appearance near the cemetery, which is but a short distance from the deserted pioneer boom town of Ruby, is causing attempts to link it with events of early day life in the "ghost city" or with various superstitions.

St. Elmo's fire is described as a flame-like appearance, sometimes seen in stormy weather at prominent points on ships and also on land on tops of trees or steeples. It is in the nature of a brush charge of electricity, reddish when positive and bluish when negative.

Goaded by Poverty, Kills Self and Tots

San Francisco.—With hunger and eviction from their home facing her family, Mrs. Edna Fuller, thirty-nine years old, huddled her five children in one room of a two-room basement flat, locked the door and windows, stuffed all cracks, and turned on the gas.

When Otto Fuller, forty, the husband and father, a $65-a-month night watchman, returned to his home he found his wife and four of the children dead. Winfield, eleven, was the only child found alive. He was taken to a hospital.

Has 14 Children, She's Independent

Mankato, Minn.—If some women think that a few children burden them—why, just take a few tips from Mrs. J. B. Scheurer, who lives near here.

Although the mother of 14 children in 27 years, Mrs. Scheurer still maintains that she is independent and she has leisure enough to allow other interests to come into life.

Three sets of twins among the 14—of whom 14 are living—have failed to make Mrs. Scheurer a household drudge, she says.

Fourteen cows, the proceeds from which go to her, have insured economic independence—and have gone far toward keeping the house and its large family of occupants.

The Scheurers' oldest child is John B. Scheurer, twenty-seven years old. The youngest is two and one-half.

MOTHER AVENGES DEATH OF HER SON

Kills Man Supposed to Have Slain Offspring.

New York.—A vendetta, relentlessly pursued by an Italian mother for six years, ended when she shot and killed the man she believed responsible for the fatal shooting of her only son.

As Andrew Ficarella, the victim, approached the corner of Delancey and Goerck streets, a few doors from the spot where he is said to have killed the young man, Mrs. Josephine Canenia, mother of the slain youth, hurried up behind him. She gripped the collar of his coat and whipped a pistol from her dress. Before he could turn she fired a shot through his neck. Four more bullets followed in quick succession. One struck him in the head, the others going wild.

The enraged mother threw her pistol aside as Ficarella fell. Bending her umbrella over her knee she hurled it at the dying man's face in a final gesture of fury. Patrolman John O'Donnell ran up and arrested her.

"Every one in the neighborhood knows that man shot my son," she said. "He was my only son, and a very good boy to me."

Detectives learned that the pistol she used had been sent to her from Italy. She told the police that she had left her husband because he would not avenge the death of their son.

Mother Kills Children, Then Commits Suicide

London.—To keep secret the birth of a son two years after she and her husband separated, Mrs. John Hase of London killed her three young children. Then, fearing arrest, she committed suicide.

The bodies of the four, hanging on pegs in the wall, were found in a back room of the Hase home by police. The secret son was one of the three children the mother killed.

John Hase, the husband, told police that he and his wife separated eight years ago and that he did not know of the birth of the youngest child. This year for the first time, he said, he decided to take advantage of a court order permitting him to see his children, and had sent for them to visit him.

Mrs. Hase, it is believed, killed the two older children for fear that they would tell their father of the third child. Documents found in the house showed that the child was born two years after the couple parted.

One of three letters written by Mrs. Hase before she killed her children and herself explained the tragedy.

"Death alone can seal my secret," she wrote. "May God forgive me for what I am about to do."

LIVE BUSINESS MEN ADVERTISE IN THE FREEMAN

One Organization For Dairymen

Movement to Unite All Dairymen of New York State Received Great Impetus at Utica—Plan Presented by Four Northern Counties.

The movement to unite all the dairymen in New York state into one organization received great impetus at the mass meeting of delegates held in Utica on October 27, according to statement by Farm Bureau Manager Wigsten, who attended: Evidence that the movement, is wide spread and properly grounded can be gleaned from the report that delegates representing the producers for all the milk marketing organizations in the New York Milk shed attended. The roll call showed forty-three counties represented by from one to eight delegates, depending on the size of the milk industry in the county, all of the delegates having been impartially elected at county-wide mass meetings held previous to the Utica meeting.

A great deal of the time of the meeting was taken up with the reading and discussion of a plan for unity prepared and offered by a committee from the four northern New York counties of Jefferson, Oswego, Lewis and St. Lawrence, the committee being made up of producers delivering milk to Sheffield Farms Co., the Dairymen's League and Independents.

The following resolutions were read preliminary to presenting the plan of unity, but were not adopted:

Whereas, representatives of New York Milk Shed Dairymen assembled at Utica, N. Y., on March 3rd, 1926, unanimously agreed that the interests of all such dairymen can best be conserved through sales of their product promoted by one United Dairymen's Cooperative Association operating under five fundamental principles as follows

No 1 Properly organized.

No 2. With membership available to actual producers' organizations operating in the territory commonly known as the New York Milk Shed

No. 3 Employing a classified price plan for sale of milk and its products.

No. 4 Equalized payment plan subject to grade and differentials.

No. 5 Comprehensive financing plan, "just and equitable to all members."

And whereas, a competent committee of eleven members was appointed to promote such plan, and

Whereas, said committee of eleven upon their first meeting differed in their interpretation of the resolutions adopted at said Utica meeting, whereupon the committees of the four northern counties of St. Lawrence, Jefferson, Lewis and Oswego reassembled and adopted resolutions admonishing the committee of eleven that any plan other than the one United organization would not be satisfactory to dairymen, and

Whereas, the committee of eleven at their second meeting considered several plans introduced by its own members without definite conclusions and adjourned to meet on June 29th —whereupon the four northern counties again reconvened and adopted resolutions requesting that another general meeting be called at Utica on June 24th and the committee of eleven to be in attendance whereat any misunderstandings could be clarified and whereat the advocates of plans introduced by its members at their second meeting could be submitted at such general meeting for analysis in order if possible that a detailed plan of organization could be agreed upon and the committee of eleven definitely instructed at its adjourned meeting to promote same, and

Whereas, such request was not granted, and the committee of eleven has failed to report its findings unanimously, and

Whereas, several months has elapsed during which the dairy industry has been losing large sums of money through its lack of unity.

Therefore be it resolved, that we do hereby reaffirm our belief that the interests of New York Milk Shed Dairymen can best be conserved through the sale of their product promoted by one United Dairymen's Cooperative Association based upon five fundamental principles as aforesaid with details of organization added thereto as follows:

The Plan of Unity.

Fundamental No. 1—"Properly Organized"—Details of Organization.

Article No. 1.

The object of this association, primarily, is to provide a guaranteed, all the year, daily, market for all the milk produced by its members.

Article No. 2.

To encourage more sanitary methods of production and more economical procedure in receiving and marketing milk by eliminating duplications of receiving plants and of her vehicles of distribution.

Article No. 3.

To build a large organization upon the merits of a popular and generally accepted plan whereby all operations can be advantageously systemized and all burdens, costs and benefits incident thereto can be equitably distributed among its members on a basis of quantities of milk delivered.

Article No. 4.

To fairly distribute, subject to grade, transportation costs and such other differentials as are equitable according to the judgment of its board of directors, all the net proceeds from sales, it being understood that this association shall be incorporated as a non-stock, non-profit organization under the Cooperative Statutes of the state of New York.

Article No. 5.

To conduct investigations and supply information to members concerning marketing conditions and trade demands in order that the consuming public may be adequately and satisfactorily supplied at all seasons of the year without encouraging excessive surplus production.

Article 6.

To cultivate a spirit of mutual helpfulness and cooperation among its members.

Article 7.

To hire, buy, sell and control such buildings and other real and personal property as may be needed in the conduct of its operations and especially to provide facilities whereby surplus milk during periods when the supply of milk exceeds trade demands for same in fluid form may be converted into such forms of merchantable milk products as can be most profitably marketed. It being understood that it is not the purpose of this association to own and operate plants where dealers will bear the burden of ownership and operation in a manner not detrimental to the interests of this association.

Article No. 8.

To perform any service calculated to promote the prosperity of all dairymen who avail themselves of membership therein.

Fundamental No. 2—"Membership" "With membership available to actual producers or producers' organizations operating in the territory commonly known as the New York Milk Shed"

Article No. 1.

Only such actual producers of milk as are conforming to the sanitary regulations of this association, the board of health rules of the city and the laws of the state where the milk is produced or is to be marketed shall be eligible to membership Also it is understood that membership shall be exercised through written contract conforming to all regulations of this organization.

Article No. 2.

Producers' organizations, whose officials have legal authority to enter into such agreement, may become members of this association through the execution of the membership contract by its duly authorized executives.

Article No. 3.

Any individual owning an interest in milk that is to be delivered to this association for the purpose of marketing, whether farm tenant, farm owner, or otherwise investor, shall be considered an actual milk producer.

Article No. 4.

Whenever a member of this association ceases to be an actual producer of milk for a period of six months, his membership will terminate by default. Any member through written notice to the association may withdraw therefrom during the month of February of any year, such withdrawal to become effective on the first day of April next following, subject to any indebtedness either party may have to the other.

Article No. 5.

The association shall at all times be under the control of its members through representatives of their choice. For the purpose of such control and representation the several groups of members delivering milk to separate receiving stations shall organize themselves into local bodies. Each local body shall elect its own officers and its representatives to attend the meetings of its direct organization In all local matters each member shall have one vote and each district representative of a local body shall have as many votes in his district organization as there are members.

The annual meeting of each local body for the election of its officers shall be held on the second Tuesday of December each year and written notices for all its regular and special meetings shall be mailed by its proper officer to all its members at least five days prior thereto stating the time, place and object of such meetings.

Article No. 6.

For the purpose of initial organization the territory commonly known as the New York Milk Shed, throughout which the operations of this organization are contemplated, shall be divided into twenty-four representative districts as follows:

District No. 1—Counties of Hunterdon, N. J.; Middlesex, N. J.; Morris, N. J.; Somerset, N. J.; Sussex, N. J.; Warren, N. J.; Northampton, Pa.

District No. 2—Counties of Putnam, N. Y.; Westchester, N. Y.; Dutchess, N. Y.; Fairfield, Conn.; Litchfield, Conn.; Berkshire, Mass.; Columbia; N. Y.

District No. 3—Counties of Rensselaer, N. Y.; Essex, N. Y.; Clinton, N. Y.; Chittenden, Vt.; Addison, Vt.; Rutland, Vt.; Saratoga, N. Y.; Washington, N. Y.; Washington, Vt.

District No. 4—Counties of Orange, N. Y.; Sullivan, N. Y.

District No. 5—Counties of Ulster, N. Y.; Schoharie, N. Y.; Schenectady, N. Y.

District No. 6—County of Delaware, N. Y.

District No. 7—County of Otsego, N. Y.

District No. 8—Counties of Herkimer, N. Y.; Oneida, N. Y.

District No. 9—Counties of St. Lawrence, N. Y.; Franklin, N. Y.

District No. 10—Counties of Jefferson, N. Y.; Lewis, N. Y.

District No. 11—Counties of Madison, N. Y.; Onondaga, N. Y.

District No. 12—Counties of Oswego, N. Y.; Cayuga, N. Y.

District No. 13—County of Chenango, N. Y.

District No. 14—Counties of Cortland, N. Y.; Tompkins, N. Y.; Seneca, N. Y.; Yates, N. Y.

District No. 15—Counties of Genesee, N. Y., Wyoming, N. Y.; Monroe, N. Y.; Wayne, N. Y.; Livingston, N. Y.; Ontario, N. Y.

District No. 16—Counties of Erie, N. Y.; Niagara, N. Y.; Orleans, N. Y.

District No. 17—Counties of Chautauqua, N. Y.; Erie, Pa.; Crawford, Pa.

District No. 18—Counties of Cattaraugus, N. Y.; McKean, Pa.; Warren, Pa.

District No. 19—Counties of Allegany, N. Y.; Potter, Pa.

District No. 20—Counties of Steuben, N. Y.; Tioga, Pa.

District No. 21—Counties of Tioga, N. Y.; Chemung, N. Y.; Schuyler, N. Y.

District No. 22—Counties of Susquehanna, Pa.; Broome, N. Y.

All local units in these districts shall be represented by their chosen director.

The board of directors of this association by a two-third vote shall have authority from time to time to make alterations of said districts to meet increasing demands to the fluid milk markets.

Article No. 7.

District Organization. The representatives of the local units shall be the governing bodies of their respective districts and shall determine qualifications and voting strength of their members.

They shall elect a secretary and such other officers as they may determine essential.

Directors so chosen shall represent the members of their respective districts and shall constitute the Board of Directors of this association. Each director shall be entitled to one vote on such board.

In order that the director may be at all times advised concerning the desires of individual members through their appointed delegates and in order also that members may be well informed in the affairs of the association, directors shall report monthly to the representatives of the local bodies.

Article No. 8.

Election of Directors. In each district in which a director is to be elected, meetings of local bodies shall be called on the last Saturday of April and at such meetings a vote may be taken to indicate the choice of the members present for a director to represent their district.

If such a vote is taken the secretary of the meeting shall certify the result thereof to the district governing board and in any event he shall certify to such body the number of members present at such local meeting.

A meeting of such governing body shall be held on the following second Tuesday in May and such meeting shall elect a chairman, a secretary and then proceed to elect a director.

The alternate representatives of local organizations shall on each ballot taken, cast a number of votes equal to the number of members certified to have been in attendance at their respective local meetings as aforesaid.

A majority of the total number of votes cast shall determine the election of a director

The secretary of such meeting shall certify the result of such election to the general secretary of this association stating the full name and address of the director so elected.

Directors shall hold office until their successors have been elected. Vacancies in the office of director may be filled for the unexpired term upon the call of a special meeting of the district governing board for such purpose.

If the delegate received specific instructions at the local meeting which appointed him, he shall at least carry out such instructions on the first ballot taken.

Article No. 9.

The Association. The directors of the several districts shall be the governing body of the association and a majority of them shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

The board of directors shall be the supreme court of determination concerning the election and qualification of its members.

Directors shall be entitled to receive compensation for their services at the rate of ten dollars per day and necessary expenses when absent from their homes on business of the association.

The board of directors shall elect its own officers, manage all business affairs of the association and arrange all necessary regulations appertaining to its officers and employes.

The board of directors shall require all officers and employes having custody of funds or property belonging to this association to execute satisfactory surety company bonds for the faithful performance of their duties and premium expenses therefor shall be borne by this association.

Immediately upon the organization of the board of directors, they shall by lot divide themselves into classes of eight members each, arranging for the term of office for class No. 1 to expire in one year, class No. 2 to expire in two years and class No. 3 to expire in three years and thereafter their successors shall each be elected for a term of three years.

Article No. 10.

Fiscal Year. The fiscal year of this association shall begin on the first day of April and terminate on the last day of March.

Article No. 11.

Annual Meeting The board of directors shall designate places situate located within the New York Milk Shed Territory whereat annual and special meetings of this association shall be from time to time held

Each local organization shall be entitled to send one representative to any annual or special meeting of the association and each representative shall be entitled to one vote.

Fundamental No. 3—"Employing a classified price plan for the sale of milk and its products."

Article No. 1.

Realizing that violent fluctuations in the price of milk are detrimental both to producers and consumers, a classified price plan for the sale of milk and its products will be adopted by this association for the purpose of stabilizing markets for same.

Fundamental No. 4—"Equalizing payment plan subject to grade and differentials"

Article No. 1.

In order that the benefits derived through this organization may be equally distributed among its members, all receipts from the sale of milk and milk products shall be blended into one general fund and out of such fund monthly pro-rata distribution subject to variations in grade, transportation costs, butterfat content and such other equitable differentials as this association may from time to time establish, less proportionate deductions to cover operating expenses, shall be made to each producing member.

Fundamental No. 5.

"Comprehensive financing plan just and equitable to all"

Article No. 1.

This association shall have authority to make such limited levies upon its members as may from time to time be necessary to create capital funds for conducting its operations, to buy real and personal property, to build, own and control buildings, to retire loans and provide working capital by making deductions therefor out of the monthly returns to members from the general fund according to quantities of milk delivered, but in no event shall deductions for such purposes exceed 15 cents per 100 pounds of milk, unless through some extreme necessity it is so ordered by a three-fourth vote of all the directors of this association.

Article No. 2.

The association shall also have authority to borrow money when in the judgment of the Board of Directors such action will promote its efficiency and to pledge any property of this association as security for payment

Article No. 3.

After the close of the fiscal year each member shall receive a certificate showing the amount of money he has contributed to capital funds made in such form, payable at such time or times and bearing such rate of interest as determined by the association, but the dates of maturity shall not exceed eight years or the rate of interest be less than four per cent or more than six per cent per annum.

Accounting and Auditing.

1. This association shall install a standard system of accounts and provide such accounting appurtenances as may be necessary to conduct the business in a safe and orderly manner

2. The books and business of the association shall be audited quarterly by auditors selected by the membership. A complete annual audit shall be made by a competent accountant previous to the date of each annual meeting, at which meeting his report shall be presented in full. Special audits shall be made upon order of the Board of Directors or upon a majority vote of the members at any annual or special meeting.

Election is all over

Yup—Election is past and we don't have to worry about who's going to win.

The thing that's troubling us is, we can't get enough Suits and Overcoats to sell. Just as fast as we get them in the store, they're sold.

And say, brother, we've sure got some wonderful clothing up at the store. You know those all woolen textures in the "tailored-to-fit" make and yes, made by hand, too,—not machine made. And then there are so many different shades that it's too hard really to name them all. But we have them and lots of them, featuring the price range between $25 and $40. Of course, we have others at $12.35 and up and also up to $65. Stop up in the afternoon or evening and let us help you to pick one out.

Footwear is our next topic. We have them for the kiddies—for the Misses and Boys—for the Young Ladies—for the Young Men—and for Dad and Grand Dad—and Mother and Grandmother. Health Shoes, comfort shoes, stylish shoes in all the new low and higher cuts. Oxfords and shoes for the young and older men; oxfords, pumps, shoes for the ladies. Give your feet a "square deal." Get your footwear for the family at Dave's and have a good understanding.

WHERE U. S. SPENDS MILLIONS FOR NUTS

Half a Million Tons Purchased Abroad.

Washington—A government agency states that nuts must be added to the list of supplies for which the United States is dependent upon the world.

Last year America bought for about $50,000,000 a half million tons of nuts or nut products, including chestnuts, walnuts, coconuts, and copra, palm nut oil and pecans, Brazil nuts, almonds, filberts and peanuts. The peanut, which is classified as a nut by the government, accounted for 30,000 tons. "The nut tree has not been taken seriously by Americans until recent years," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society from its headquarters in Washington.

"The Indian and the pioneer respected its gifts, but for many years a nut tree existed in America only to provide a happy outlet for the excess energy of small boys in the fall.

"America would be importing many more tons of nuts but for the fact that Americans have gone in for nut crops within the last twenty years. Pecan orchards have been planted in Florida, Georgia and other southern states; walnut and almond orchards have been planted in California. The peanut, of course, is a new world native by birth, and a standby in Virginia and the South. Nevertheless, America still must look abroad for nuts, especially those produced in the tropics.

"Where does America shop for nut meats? She goes to Tobago, Trinidad, Jamaica, the Philippines and South Seas for coconuts; she goes to Brazil for Brazil nuts and babassu nuts; to Lagos, Liberia, and Sierra Leone for palm nuts; to Italy and Spain for almonds, filberts and pignolia nuts; to Syria and Palestine for pistache nuts; and to France for English walnuts and chestnuts. Walnuts also come from China, Italy, Spain, and Chile in some quantities.

On the Trail of the Elusive Walnut.

An American investigator went to the Orient to study the Chinese walnut industry. His experience throws light on the odd sources of our nut meats. Shanghai, he knew, was the main shipping point for millions of pounds of walnut meats coming to the United States. Arriving there he called on the exporters and asked how to find the Chinese walnut orchards. No one knew. They came from the interior. That was enough for the exporters. But the American found a Chinese assistant who told him that the walnuts came from Taiyuanfu, capital of Shansi province.

"'Strange,' the American investigator said to himself when he reached Taiyuanfu, 'there are no walnut trees in sight.' But he was soon put right by a citizen who told him that the walnut trees were exactly 100 miles farthere on, at Fenchow. He obtained one of the 18 motor cars in Shansi province and started off for Fenchow. The American reached his destination only to be informed that the walnut trees, as a matter of fact, were 25 miles farther on. Although the nuts were similar to the English walnut of California, the Bear state has no such walnut trees to show as the investigator found deep in China.

"In another part of the world tongues are wagging over a new and probably important development in the nut trade. Beside the northern tributaries of the sprawling Amazon grows a palm tree which produces the babassu nut. Probably the babassu gave inspiration for the phrase, 'a hard nut to crack.' Its spherical shell, about the size of a baseball, has been known to withstand six tons' pressure! The prize for the strong man who can crack a babassu is a group of nut meats the size and shape of shelled Brazil nuts. Each nut meat will burn readily and can be used as a wickless candle. Babassu meat is 66 per cent oil, which is said to be the only nut oil that can be substituted for coconut oil.

"To Americans must come much credit for putting nut growing on a business basis. The walnut orchard, the pecan orchard and the almond orchard are largely American institutions.

Coconut Puts Lather in Lather

"Almonds are grown all around the Mediterranean basin, but the United States gets her chief supplies from Italy and Spain. Anatolia, Syria, Greece and North Africa ship to northern Europe. The Orient also looks to the Mediterranean for almonds. Practically the entire Italian supply of shelled almonds goes to India, where it is an essential to some of the famous Indian dishes.

"Recent exposures of cream dilution with coconut fat in New York city give some hint to the uses of the coconut. Its role as an edible nut is small compared to its part in the modern industrial scheme as maker of oleomargarine, soap and salad oil and candles. It also is widely used in shaving cream manufacture to impart a lather-producing quality.

"An all-important nut which is not edible is the palm nut. The African Gold Coast ships thousands of tons annually to the United States for soap, candles, coloring for butter substitutes, heat-resistant paints, shoe polish and for lubrication of cutting tools.

"The tin plate industry is one of the heaviest buyers of palm nuts. Palm oil is essential to the making of that necessity of modern civilization, the tin can. Thin sheet iron after being passed into its bath of molten tin must be brought through palm oil, floating on the hot metal, when it emerges with its shiny tin coat."

Keeping Cut Flowers

Chemicals have little effect on the keeping qualities of flowers. Many of them are harmless, but none of them are of much value. Deep vases and bowls are better than the bottom upon because they allow more water to come in contact with the stem and the lower foliage.

Educational Fairs

The origin of community, county and state fairs is somewhat obscure, although it is known that English landlords centuries ago held fairs by staging an exhibition of the products produced on the estate. Prizes were awarded at these. Education was the main purpose of these Englishmen, as they themselves wanted to learn better methods of producing better quality products.

Kept Him From Gossiping

Among the queer queens of history, perhaps few were queerer than Catherine II of Russia. One of this great monarch's idiosyncrasies was to keep her wigmaker for more than three years in an iron cage in her bedchamber, that she might prevent him from telling other people she wore a wig.

Yes, Indeed!

"The fastest horse doesn't always win," is the dictum of a sporting writer. Still pace hath her victories!

Early Church Bells

The Irish name for bell is "clog," and in the French it is "cloche," which some assert is derived from the Irish, where missionaries in the early centuries carried with them not alone their books, but their bells also, to enthuse God to be used "more Scotorum" (after the manner of the Irish) in the service of religion.

Republicans Win In Pennsylvania

Philadelphia, Nov. 3 (AP).—Pennsylvania Republicans scored a sweeping victory in yesterday's election.

Although Congressman William S. Vare chosen as the Republican senatorial nominee in the state's $3,000,000 primary last spring, led his Democratic opponent, William B. Wilson, secretary of labor under President Wilson, by approximately 230,000 in returns from more than three-fourths of the state, he ran far behind the other candidates for the ticket.

John S. Fisher, Republican gubernatorial nominee, with a total vote close to 400,000 above that for Vare, showed a plurality in returns from approximately the same districts of more than 623,000 over Judge Eugene C Bonniwell, Democrat. But for the substantial plurality recorded for Congressman Vare in Philadelphia his home and the stronghold of his political organization, the senatorial result might have been in doubt as his vote outside of the city ran generally slightly below that for Wilson. In the same districts, however his running mate, Fisher, ran far ahead of his opponent.

Hasbrouck Led In Ulster County

While the result on Supreme court justice is uncertain, Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck has every reason to feel pleased with the vote received in his home county, where he defeated that widely known and politically strong Ulster county Democrat, Judge John G. Van Etten, by a majority of approximately 4,400.

League of Nations Proposal Defeated

Malden, Mass., Nov. 3 (AP).—Through a League of Nations referendum, believed to have been the only one of its kind in the country, this city has recorded its opposition to United States membership. The proposal, which was part of the official ballot in yesterday's election, was defeated by a vote of 5,057 to 2,431. The result will be communicated to Massachusetts's two representatives in the senate.

Wanted:—A Freckled Boy

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

PERHAPS it's my mistaken mind—
But where have all the freckles gone?
I very seldom seem to find
A youngster who has freckles on.
Of course, you sometimes see a nose
With six or seven, I suppose,
But what I mean is freckles here,
From chin to brow, and ear to ear.

Now, what is (as is often said)
Worth doing is worth doing well!
And freckles should be freely spread
Around the face, I'm here to tell.
If you possess a freckled face,
Then have it freckled ev'ry place,
So not a soul can doubt a lot
If it's a freckled face or not.

There never was a freckled lad
That other people didn't like,
Another thing, he always had
A name like Jimmy, Bill or Mike.
You never saw an Algernon
With very many freckles on,
Or someone freckled who was called
A Percival or Archibald.

But somehow, on the topmost branch,
You always found the freckled kid,
The roughest pony on the ranch
He said he'd ride, and ride he did
A freckled boy could climb and run
And have a lot of freckled fun
And catch more sunfish from a dock
Than all the cherubs in the block.

So if you know (perhaps you do,)
The sort of youngster that I meant,
I know a bank, a railroad, too,
Both looking for a president.
Of course, if Freckles they employ,
They'll start him in as office boy.
But he'll be president in time—
For freckled kids can always climb.

Mother's Cook Book

When we look into the long avenue of the future and see the good there is for each of us to do, we realize, after all, what a beautiful thing it is to work and live and be happy.—Stevenson.

CABBAGE W YS

CABBAGE, like onions, is not favored because of its odor when cooked, but it is a wholesome vegetable both raw and cooked and contains valuable mineral salts needed in the blood.

The main reason we tire of different vegetables is that they are served so frequently in the same ways. If a change of serving and a little more care in cooking, these common vegetables would be more welcome.

Cabbage cooked with one onion and served in a white sauce is a very good way.

Swedish Cabbage.

Boil in salted water for 20 minutes a dozen good-sized fresh cabbage leaves. Drain them and fill with the following mixture: A pound of beef chopped fine, one egg, two tablespoonfuls of cream, one-half teaspoonful of white pepper, one teaspoonful of salt, one of chopped parsley. Rub the dish with the cut side of a clove of garlic. Mix thoroughly and roll each leaf around a tablespoonful of the mixture; trim the ends neatly and tie or skewer. Lay in a dripping pan with a pint of stock or butter and water. Baste frequently, and bake for half an hour, or until tender. Remove the rolls, thicken with the gravy and pour over the cabbage.

Stuffed Cabbage.

Remove the stalk from a hard head of cabbage, tie in a cloth and cook until tender. Scoop out a cavity from the stem-end and fill with a stuffing of chopped meat, seasoned bread crumbs and butter. Bake in a hot oven until the cabbage is brown.

Hot Slaw.

Shred a head of cabbage and pour over the following dressing: Beat two egg yolks, add two tablespoonfuls of water, a dish of salt a tablespoonful of butter, and a cupful of mild vinegar. Cook this dressing over hot water and pour over the shredded cabbage while hot. Heat the cabbage and serve hot.

German Cabbage.

Slice red cabbage and let stand in cold water. Drain, and to one quart of cabbage add two tablespoonfuls of butter, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of finely chopped onions, a few gratings of nutmeg and a bit of cayenne, cover and cook until the cabbage is tender. Add two tablespoonfuls of vinegar and one tablespoonful of sugar and cook five minutes.

Escalloped Cabbage.

Put layers of cooked cabbage and white sauce in a baking dish and sprinkle each with a light layer of snappy cheese. Bake until the buttered crumbs covering the top are brown, then serve at once.

Standard of Manhood

Man comes to himself only when he has found the best that is in him and has satisfied his heart with the highest achievement of which he is capable. That alone to him is the real measure of himself, the real standard of his manhood.—Grit.

Invented Heraldry

The origin of heraldic arms is by general consent attributed to the necessity which arose during the crusades of distinguishing the leaders of the numerous bands of warriors which constituted the Christian armies.

majorities in Nevada in favor of a modification appeal to Congress. At the same time available reports from California and Montana showed majorities for repeal of the state enforcement acts, while Missouri and Colorado, voting on the same question, were recording majorities in the negative.

Wets Claim Victory.

The defeat of Senator Butler in Massachusetts was claimed as a victory by the wets, his successful Democratic opponent, former Senator Walsh, having cast his lot long ago with the modificationists. Democratic party spokesmen, however, were quick to describe the result as a rebuke to President Coolidge, who singled out Senator Butler as the only senatorial candidate to receive his personal endorsement. To set an example for his fellow citizens in Massachusetts the President went by special train to Northampton where he cast his vote in time to return to Washington and receive the returns at the White House. He retired for the night without making public comment on the result in any state.

Mr. Butler's defeat removes him immediately from his place in the senate, where Senator Walsh now takes rank as the junior colleague of Senator Gillett, by whom he was defeated by a margin of 18,000 two years ago. Butler held office by appointment, and had been commissioned to serve as successor to the late Henry Cabot Lodge until a senator could be chosen at the polls. The unexpired term thus handed along by the voters to Walsh expires in 1929.

Wadsworth's Defeat Big Surprise.

The overthrow of Senator Wadsworth by Robert F. Wagner in New York was perhaps the greatest surprise of all to the Republican chieftains. They had been in some measure prepared for the re-election of Governor Smith, despite a fighting campaign by Ogden L. Mills, the Republican nominee, but they hoped at least to keep the Governor's plurality within such bounds that the hazards attendant upon a Democratic landslide would be avoided. But Smith's tremendous vote in New York city was accompanied by such a shower of straight Democratic ballots that Wadsworth found it impossible to overcome the Wagner majority in Greater New York with what remained of his own upstate vote after it had been split by Franklin W. Cristman, the independent Republican running as a dry.

Vote in Pennsylvania.

The Republican victories accorded William S. Vare in Pennsylvania and Frank L. Smith in Illinois were accompanied by a material falling off of the normal party majorities. In both campaigns the slush fund charges aired last spring before the senate committee were intertwined with the wet and dry issue. An independent Republican candidate, Hugh S. Magill, entered the Illinois contest as a protest against Smith's attitude toward campaign expenditures, and polled a tidy total in the three cornered fight. In Pennsylvania the Democratic senatorial candidate, William B. Wilson, a former secretary of labor, had the support of many Republicans, including Senator Norris of Nebraska, who went into the state to wreak Vare's defeat. Wilson ran ahead of his ticket for a total that mounted into the hundreds of thousands, but it was not enough to overthrow the lead pyramided by Vare's Republican organization in Philadelphia.

DISTRICT LUTHER LEAGUES HOLD RALLY FRIDAY NIGHT.

The Senior and Junior Luther Leagues of Trinity Lutheran Church of Spring street, the Rev. William H. Pretzsch, pastor, are preparing for the rally of the Luther Leagues of the Rhinebeck district to be held in the church on Friday night with a service at 8 o'clock, followed immediately by a social in the church basement.

This being the first service of its kind ever held in this church, all members and friends are enthusiastic. Prizes will be given to the Leagues for the largest delegation and for the best "stunt" during the social.

The Rev. H. Wahl of Hudson will be the speaker and Luther Ben, president of the District Leagues, will make a short address.

The public is most cordially invited to be present.

SERIES OF SERMONS AT ALBANY AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH.

Beginning this coming Sunday, and on the first three Sunday evenings of November, the Rev. A. S. Cole, pastor of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church, will give a series of sermons on the general topic, "An Ancient Prophet on Modern Problems." The aim of these sermons will be to take the messages of the Prophet Amos and show their application to present-day questions. Amos is one of the greatest names in the history of the world, and the originality and power of his message can be felt even at the present time, 2,600 years after he lived. The first sermon of the series will be given this coming Sunday evening on the topic, "Religion and Judgment."

Vermont Elects Republicans

Montpelier, Vt., Nov. 3 (AP).—Vermont, native state of President Coolidge and normally Republican, elected a Republican governor, a Republican senator and two Republican congressmen in yesterday's election. John E. Weeks was chosen governor.

United States Senator Porter H. Dale easily won re-election as did Congressmen Elbert S. Brigham and Ernest W. Gibson.

Prohibition was not an issue in Vermont.

ACTIVITIES OF THE PLATTEKILL GRANGE

At the last regular meeting of Plattekill Grange members of Brookside Grange were guests and the hall was well filled, approximately 150 responding to roll call. A splendid program was rendered, affording entertainment for all. It consisted of a piano solo by Miss Purdy; a vocal solo, "Mighty Lak a Rose" by Miss Wager; a dialogue entitled "Stock" by Messrs. Weir and Purdy of Brookside Grange; an interesting talk by the Rev. J. W. Taylor of Plattekill M. E. Church, and a short sketch entitled "Fraternity Brothers" given by Gerow Wilkin, Wilmot Denniston and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Denniston. A bountiful supper was served by the graces.

Plans are being made for a play to be given for the benefit of the Grange in the near future.

At the next meeting on November 14, first and second degrees will be conferred on a large class of candidates. The refreshments committee for the evening will be: Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Minard, Mr. and Mrs. William Leetch, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Everett, Charles Dayton, John Enenecker, Mr. and Mrs. W. Pressler.

Missionary Society Meeting.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church will hold its regular monthly meeting on Friday afternoon at three o'clock at the parsonage, 193 Clinton avenue. Mrs. A. S. Cole is the hostess and all ladies of the church and congregation are cordially invited. The program will be as follows: Devotions, Mrs. E. C. Haines; Lessons, Foreign Missionaries Who Came to America: (1) William Knibb, Mrs. W. E. Simmons; (2) Madame Feller, Mrs. Harry Klothe; Short Story, Mrs. H. W. Smith.

Don't Neglect that COUGH

IT never pays to neglect a cough. It does not pay, either, to try to stop it with a remedy which your doctor might not approve.

PERTUSSIN is a proven remedy that has been prescribed successfully for twenty years in the treatment of all harmful coughs, including whooping cough.

PERTUSSIN soothes the cough spasm, helps to clear the air passages of sticky, germ-laden mucus and reduces the inflammation. It is positively free from injurious or habit forming drugs.

Sold by all druggists in large and small bottles.
